PARENTS: Are you tired of...

- Asking kids to do something and getting arguing, whining or complaining?
- Having to nag and remind your kids to go to bed, pick up their things, or do homework?
- Feeling like you have to get upset and yell before you can get your child to listen?
- Wondering when, and how, life got so out of control?
- Feeling frustrated but not knowing what to do about it?

Would you like to have more energy at the end of the day?
A peaceful home? Cooperative kids?

It's possible with a little Love and Logic!

Discover how to raise respectful, responsible, happy children and teens who know how to think and make wise decisions;
kids who listen the first time.

This six session, multi-media program combines video teachings, written exercises and small group interactions to create a fun, and life-changing, learning experience for parents who are ready to put an end to bickering, whining, and arguing and instead have a peaceful home with happy children. With a laugh-and-learn approach, parents will giggle their way through teachings that:

- Are simple and easy to learn
- Teach responsibility and character
- Lower stress levels in the home
- Have immediate and positive effects

Here are some of the practical things parents will learn how to handle: arguing, whining, complaining, begging, chores, homework, bullying, video/TV time, curfews, sibling bickering, and much, much more!

All without nagging, yelling, spanking, lecturing, threatening, warning, reminding, ranting or raving. Yes, it is possible with a little Love and Logic!

Last school year, the Redmond Elementary staff participated in the Love and Logic® for Teachers series. It was a great year of professional development, and we noticed a lot more positive interactions with students and saw their confidence begin to soar!
